

Craig Sinclair

“soulful acoustic folk-blues”

Part 1920’s timewarp, part post-millennium spiritual yearning, and never a sugar-coated truth in sight. It’s that deep, aching, smoky place where blues music returns to its birthplace and takes on its true power. For blues artist Craig Sinclair this place is the inspiration for a unique brand of folk-blues music which draws the listener into an articulate and heartfelt world of story, melody and mesmerizing guitar sounds.

“A consummate live performer” (Peter Barr, RTR FM 92.1), Craig Sinclair combines crisp fingerstyle slide guitar playing with soulful vocals and contemporary original folk-blues songwriting to craft a unique style that draws on many rich traditions, but in the end answers to itself.
